customized insulated bags

Norzia was founded by some young entrepreneurs who decided to engage their own experience and focus their energies on producing specialized insulated bags.

Norzia's insulated bags are excellent for medical products, fresh and frozen foods and all those other products where it is essential to maintain a level of coolness during transportation or even just where you want a high impact way to advertise your brand.

Our extensive experience in the flexo packaging field enables us to produce an exceptionally high quality, customized, printed insulated bag.

Our production facilities are of the highest level, equipped with the latest technology which allows us to print HD (high definition) flexo up to 10 colours, whilst constraining costs and optimizing resources.

The bags are available in different sizes to your own design which will give you a final product that can be used as an excellent advertising vehicle for your company to get the best possible visibility.
